Dear [REDACTED]

Can [REDACTED] offer a product that meets the salient characteristics as stated in the Justification and Approval? If so, please identify the make, model and salient characteristics in your response.

ELSAG is the only known manufacturer and distributor for LPR cameras already in FBI inventory and deployed in the field. Consequently, to maintain compatibility with existing equipment and training, ELSAG is the only manufacturer and distributor capable of meeting the following salient characteristics:

- An IR illuminator (shall support wavelength of 940nm), required in many operational deployments, shall not be visible to the naked eye;
- Shall fit within extremely small enclosures in existing locations (a maximum of 4 3/8" x 4 3/8" x 10"; exceeding any of the specified dimensions will preclude deployment using existing platforms); LPR camera + color camera + illuminator shall operate thru an opening with dimensions (maximum) 4 3/8" x 4 3/8";
- Maximum target angle shall be greater than 40 degrees to allow for elevated platform deployment;
- Shall provide for operational distance of greater than 50 feet;
- Shall transmit high volume data over low bandwidth (less than 100kbs);
- Shall operate with low power consumption to be self sustaining (12V, < 15W);
- Shall have an Open API (Application Programmer's Interface) or SQL Database Interface, to enable FBI software processes to access both the LPR and Color images at the point of collection, and shall provide the image coordinates of where the plate is located within the LPR image. To accommodate transmission requirements, the VSU has developed a communications protocol which relies on finding the license plate within a captured image; deployed LPR systems shall be able to transmit high volume traffic over low bandwidth.
- Shall be capable of capturing plates at minimum 60' at 100mph;
- Shall support GPS tagging of LPR images;
- Field of view shall be 14' nominal at the operational range.

Thank you,

Hi [REDACTED]

Thanks for the document.

Should we treat this as an open RFQ and submit a response within a particular date?

I noted last week that you pulled the sole source, is there now an RFQ response schedule?

Good afternoon, [REDACTED]

I'm sorry I missed your call.

Attached is the Justification and Approval document regarding the LPR requirement. I misread the FAR requirement and had intended to post the J&A after award; however, upon further review, I discovered the J&A should have been posted the same day as the solicitation. Please accept my apology for any inconvenience this has caused you.

If [REDACTED] product is capable of meeting the FBI's technical requirements, please let me know.

Hi [REDACTED]

I just tried calling you.

I was wondering if it would make sense for our team to provide basic product information to you or to the end-user at FBI so that they understand the LPR product offerings that we have in the market and can understand how that might fit their needs assessment if they are in process of creating a bid document.

As I mentioned earlier we provide LPR products and also provide LPR data services (and have current FBI contracts for our data product offerings.)

If this seems like something that would be beneficial, please let me know and I will have my marketing team send you a package.

Thanks for your response last week.

I notified my UC today regarding OGC's tardiness. Unfortunately, OGC only has one representative that has authorization to approve policy on OGC's behalf. My UC has significant rapport with her and is reaching out to her today to give a push in the right direction.

This isn't the first time OGC has been delinquent on policy matters, and I'd be a fool to be that it will be the last. I'm sorry that this process isn't as seamless as it should be, but the process relies on so many people and, as such, is quite difficult to keep to narrow timelines.

I promise to keep you posted as anything comes up.

Quick update,

b6
b7C

Should be seeing the LPR policy come out of collaboration either today or tomorrow as per OGC's policy rep. My UC met with her yesterday. The system automatically moves the policy from Collaboration to Preparer Review approximately 6hrs after the final box has been checked.

We've been dealing with OGC on policy and other issues in the past and it's definitely a cog in the wheel. Not their fault most likely but when you get a group of lawyers subjectively determining the meaning of every word in every context, along with having a little ego to feed the fire☺, things tend to drag out a bit. Hopefully they're mastery of the English language will save our bacon some day☺ Thanks for your help.

In response to your VM.

I notified my UC today regarding OGC's tardiness. Unfortunately, OGC only has one representative that has authorization to approve policy on OGC's behalf. My UC has significant rapport with her and is reaching out to her today to give a push in the right direction.

This isn't the first time OGC has been delinquent on policy matters, and I'd be a fool to be that it will be the last. I'm sorry that this process isn't as seamless as it should be, but the process relies on so many people and, as such, is quite difficult to keep to narrow timelines.

I promise to keep you posted as anything comes up.

Dear [redacted]

FBI-4179-ALPRS

b7E

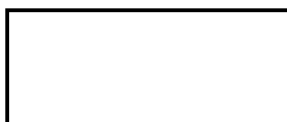

Can [redacted] offer a product that meets the salient characteristics as stated in the Justification and Approval? If so, please identify the make, model and salient characteristics in your response.

b7E

ELSAG is the only known manufacturer and distributor for LPR cameras already in FBI inventory and deployed in the field. Consequently, to maintain compatibility with existing equipment and training, ELSAG is the only manufacturer and distributor capable of meeting the following salient characteristics:

- An IR illuminator (shall support wavelength of 940nm), required in many operational deployments, shall not be visible to the naked eye;
- Shall fit within extremely small enclosures in existing locations (a maximum of 4 3/8" x 4 3/8" x 10"; exceeding any of the specified dimensions will preclude deployment using existing platforms); LPR camera + color camera + illuminator shall operate thru an opening with dimensions (maximum) 4 3/8" x 4 3/8";
- Maximum target angle shall be greater than 40 degrees to allow for elevated platform deployment;
- Shall provide for operational distance of greater than 50 feet;
- Shall transmit high volume data over low bandwidth (less than 100kbs);
- Shall operate with low power consumption to be self sustaining (12V, < 15W);
- Shall have an Open API (Application Programmer's Interface) or SQL Database Interface, to enable FBI software processes to access both the LPR and Color images at the point of collection, and shall provide the image coordinates of where the plate is located within the LPR image. To accommodate transmission requirements, the VSU has developed a communications protocol which relies on finding the license plate within a captured image; deployed LPR systems shall be able to transmit high volume traffic over low bandwidth.
- Shall be capable of capturing plates at minimum 60' at 100mph;
- Shall support GPS tagging of LPR images;
- Field of view shall be 14' nominal at the operational range.

Hi [REDACTED]

I just tried calling you.

I was wondering if it would make sense for our team to provide basic product information to you or to the end-user at FBI so that they understand the LPR product offerings that we have in the market and can understand how that might fit their needs assessment if they are in process of creating a bid document.

As I mentioned earlier we provide LPR products and also provide LPR data services (and have current FBI contracts for our data product offerings.)

If this seems like something that would be beneficial, please let me know and I will have my marketing team send you a package.

Thanks for your response last week.

I sent the VSU CPD to CPO and I got the following response below highlighted in yellow. It looks like your hard work doesn't make the policy cut. [redacted]

Any objections?

Also the LPR policy should be back to you soon for preparer review.
