Hi [Redacted]

Happy New Year - I hope you all had a wonderful holiday.

Please find attached, the latest revised price list. This incorporates [Redacted] in your item 1 below and deletes the products in your item 4 below.

Regarding item 2, here is what has transpired since the September 2009 price list:

[Redacted]

Regarding item 3 we have undergone a simple name change [Redacted] was renamed to [Redacted] This is a name change only and there is no impact to the kit or functionality or pricing from last year's price list. There is no upgrade path from [Redacted]

Please let me know if you require further clarifications

There is a specific form that has to be filled out for these items. If you can provide a fax number [Redacted] can get that down to you.

Thanks,

[Redacted]

... Please include your classified fax number as well, so I can get the SOW down to you.

RE: Review of [Redacted]

Priority: Priority

I've reviewed [Redacted] evaluating it on the basis price and value. The pricing is acceptable and is comparable to previous contracting efforts. As to contract value, this type of contract [Redacted] will be in the Government's interest as it will significantly reduce the number of man-hours spent in generating multiple contracts over the next fiscal years.

I recommend approval and subsequent contract award.

The FBI's  team will assist bureau units with their initial high-level project plans prior to the multi-agency review. To increase the likelihood of approval, it will be helpful to keep several elements in mind as you craft your submission documents.

1. Describe how your project relates to the current and future challenges presented by one (or more) of the specific technologies noted.

2. Think in terms of "gaps!"
Describe current/future operational shortcomings and how the project will overcome them.

3. Identify the specific benefits that will accrue to the FBI's

4. Is the project sustainable beyond the funding period identified?
Preference is more likely to be given to projects that will be maintained by  once the initiative concludes.

5.
Collaboration, in development and/or procurement phases, is looked upon favorably and demonstrates that duplication of effort is being avoided.

6. Identify the base funds your unit will contribute to the effort.
Doing so demonstrates your unit's commitment to the program. (Be aware that unit funding is not offset by any enhancement funds you receive, nor should a unit reallocate funds to other projects if  onies are provided.)

Process

Please review the [redacted] document "Understanding the Core Principles" to ensure that you understand the ground rules and that your intended submission falls within the scope of the program.

Initial submissions can be crafted using a Word template designed for that purpose. (Filename: [redacted] Submission Form-Rev06-11.dot). Save the completed template as a Word document with a filename that begins with your unit's acronym (for example: [redacted] FY2012.doc)
