Mr. John Magaw, Undersecretary
Transportation Security Administration
400 W. Seventh St., S.W., Room 10126
Washington, DC 20590

Dear Mr. Magaw:

Enclosed please find a copy of correspondence that our district office received from [redacted] Representative Nethercutt has asked me to forward it to your office for resolution.

[redacted] has been flagged in an integrated database that is used by the airline industry (in this case Horizon/Alaska Airlines) to track suspicious travelers.

[redacted] has been a [redacted] for the past twenty years, and has been subjected to multiple, strict searches at the airports to which he travels since April 2002. [redacted] has been informed by Horizon Airlines that he is no threat and that his name has been cleared, however, since the database has the "suspicious traveller" designation for his record, he must undergo multiple searches at every leg of every flight he undertakes.

No definitive information has been provided to [redacted] by the FBI, TSA, or FAA regarding why his record has this designation or the procedures in having the designation removed. During this time of heightened security consciousness it is necessary to thoroughly check all passengers who may be suspicious or deemed capable of carrying out a terrorist action. However, when a frequent traveler whose name has been flagged has been determined as a non-threatening passenger, there must be procedures in place to remove the special designation from the computer system. Representative Nethercutt is requesting that a determination be made in the case of [redacted] and once his name is cleared, he should have the special designation removed from his record.

If the Transportation Security Administration is not responsible for updating the integrated database, I would appreciate your referral of this matter to the appropriate agency for its handling.

Thank you for your consideration and assistance with this

REQUEST FOR CONGRESSIONAL ASSISTANCE

I have been a member of the [REDACTED] and lived in [REDACTED] for twenty years. As a [REDACTED] must travel regularly to present performances, etc. Beginning last April, I began having problems.

} b6

I was told by folks from Horizon Airlines that my name is similar to someone else's, so I have been put on an FBI list. They tell me that my name is "cleared" but since it is on the list and in their system, they must subject me to additional security.

This means my checked baggage is completely searched—everything is removed, one item at a time, and the suitcase is tested for explosives. Then after that, I am finally issued a boarding pass (although mine has an "S" on it for additional security), and then I am thoroughly searched when I go to the gate. All of my carry on luggage—including my delicate, expensive saxophone—is completely searched, piece by piece. I am also personally searched (just short of a strip search) and my shoes are checked for explosives. Then, when my row is called for boarding, my things and I are searched again. If I have any connecting flights, I am searched as I enter the gate and again as I board the plane. This means that if I have two additional connections, I am can be searched as many as six times.

Because my name is on the list and in the Horizon Airlines system, this now happens to me on every flight I take. I was told that there is nothing I can do about it and that this will happen to me no matter what airline I fly.

This happened to me on the following flights:

April 4—Lewiston to Boise, Horizon Air

April 7—Boise to Lewiston, Horizon Air

July 5—Pullman to Seattle to Medford, Horizon Air

July 11—Medford to Portland to Seattle to Pullman, Horizon Air

July 12—Pullman to Seattle, Horizon Air

July 15—Seattle to Pullman, Horizon Air

July 29—Pullman to Seattle to San Jose, Horizon/Alaska Air

August 8—San Jose to Seattle to Pullman, Alaska/Horizon Air

Dear Mr. Burgess,

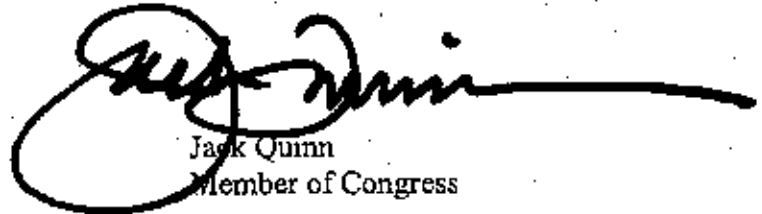

I have recently been contacted by [redacted] regarding difficulties he has encountered as a professional and private pilot at the airport.

I have taken the liberty of enclosing the correspondence I received relative to this matter, and look forward to your expedited review and response.

[redacted] is seeking some identification/clearance that will provide him more easy passage to and from work as a pilot. [redacted] believes his common Pakistani surname has been the cause of these delays. Every assistance afforded him will be appreciated.

Thank you in advance for your attention to this matter. If you have any questions or suggestions, please do not hesitate to contact me in my Buffalo district office.

Honorable Jack Quinn
Member of Congress

Dear Mr. Quinn:

I am an American citizen of Pakistan descent and have been living in the United States for almost 25 years.

I am presently employed as an airline pilot and have been so employed for numerous years without incident.

After September 11, and in the last month, I have been stopped twice by airport security because my last name is [REDACTED] if the name [REDACTED] is in the computer as a person to be checked. The first time I was flying on my own, but because of this problem I was unable to board my plane and had to stay overnight to get clearance.

b6 b6

Last week, while in full uniform, I was again stopped for the same reason and delayed for over an hour. As a result, I was almost unable to leave on time and the flight was almost canceled.

I am sure my employer will not put up with this, because if the plane I am supposed to fly is delayed, it could cost the airline a lot of money.

Would you please check with the "Joint Task Force" of the FBI and see if there is anything they can give me so I can clear security without being delayed unnecessarily?

[REDACTED] a very common surname in Pakistan and without a first name it borders on harassment. Could you imagine if you were stopped, questioned for over an hour and almost missing a plane because the name "Quinn" was in the computer?

b6

Very truly yours,

[REDACTED]

Dear Ms. Swan:

Enclosed please find a copy of correspondence that our district office received from [redacted] Representative Nethercutt has asked me to forward it to your office for resolution.

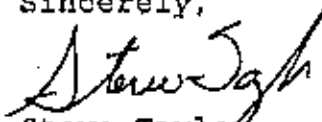

[redacted] believes she is being improperly targeted and singled out for special searches by airport security personnel whenever she travels. She believes her name has been flagged in a "suspicious traveller" database utilized by TSA security personnel in our nation's airports. [redacted] wants to know if her name has been flagged for special airline gate searches and what process is involved to clear her name from the system.

Representative Nethercutt's office has received numerous inquiries from constituents concerned about the privacy issues involved with such a database system that has the capacity to single out citizens who do not match any profile of someone inclined to commit a terrorist act. To help answer our constituents' inquiries, we would like to have information as to how an affected air passenger may apply to be cleared and removed from the "suspicious traveller" database.

I would appreciate you reviewing this matter and responding to our Spokane district office at your earliest convenience. If you need additional information, please contact me at (509) 353-2374.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter.

The Honorable George Nethercutt
Spokane District Office
920 W. Riverside Avenue, Suite 594
Spokane, WA 99201

Dear George:

On September 23rd I flew on Alaska Airlines, flight # 364, from Spokane to L.A. This was a round trip ticket purchased approximately one month prior to my departure. As there is no through flight from Spokane to L.A., I had to go through Seattle and change planes there. Before I was allowed to board the aircraft in Spokane, I was pulled out of line for a special security search. My hand carry and purse were thoroughly searched. I had to remove my shoes and also had to turn down my belt to show there was nothing hidden there. I was gone over with one of the wands, as I was forced to stand in a spread eagle position. The security agent also patted down the legs of my pants from the calf down. I was forced to endure this procedure, before I could board my flight.

In Seattle where I changed planes to board Alaska Airlines flight #582, I was again pulled out of line for another special security search just before I was to board my flight. I had just been put through this procedure in Spokane and now it was done to me a second time. I had never left the security area of the airport. I couldn't believe it!

September 30th, I returned to Spokane on Alaska Airlines flight # 409. I noticed there were no security screeners present for this flight when I boarded in L.A. But in Portland, where I had to change planes, this time to Horizon Air flight #2356, there was one security screener -- and again I was pulled out of line for a special security check.

On one round trip to Southern California and back, I was targeted for special security checks THREE times out of FOUR flight segments!

In June, when I flew home from Houston, before I could board the aircraft, I was singled out for a special security check.

I've endured too many security checks for this to be "just a random check" --- this is harassment! I am a 62 year old Caucasian grandmother and law abiding citizen.

I want to know WHY I am being targeted for these "special security" checks??? The only thing I know is turn to my congressman and request your help in getting to the bottom of this matter.

Sincerely,

 b4

Attention: Mr. Andrew Bobrek

Subject: Request for Assistance - TSA

Dear Congressman Walsh:

I write to you with hope that you or your staff may be able to provide assistance to us, Syracuse Research Corporation (SRC), and/or our legal counsel, Devorsetz Stinziano Gilberti Heintz & Smith, P.C. (Devorsetz), as we try to resolve an ongoing situation with the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) that involves one of our employees.

The situation involves the repeated detention of one of our employees, [redacted] who has as he attempts to fly from Syracuse, New York to Washington, D.C. [redacted] who has a top-secret government clearance, apparently has been detained because he shares the same last name as someone on the FAA watch list, as well as the same year of birth, [redacted]. In each instance, once the FBI has confirmed his identify, he is released. Other information pertaining to this issue may be referenced in the attached letters from Devorsetz to TSA dated 1 May 2002 and 11 September 2002.

While I understand that your schedule is especially busy at this time, any support that your office may offer in helping to get a response from TSA is greatly appreciated. Neither SRC or Devorsetz has received any communication from TSA in response to these letters. I would be pleased to discuss this matter in greater detail and answer any questions that you or your staff might have. I look forward to hearing from you.

Very truly yours,

Re: [REDACTED] b6
TSA Control No. 10094

Dear Ms. Lozito:

I wrote to you last May at the behest of your colleague, Charlotte Bryan, but have not received a response. Similarly, my telephone calls to you have not been returned.

As I explained in my previous correspondence, which is enclosed, I contacted you because your colleagues in the Transportation Security Administration informed me that you are the person most likely to be able to help me help my client, [REDACTED] b6
He frequently flies for his employer, Syracuse Research Corporation. Last April [REDACTED] was scheduled to fly from Syracuse, New York to Washington, D.C. to conduct business at the Pentagon that morning. b6

Employees of U.S. Airways in Syracuse thought that he matched a profile on the FAA's watch list and [REDACTED] was detained for several hours questioning by the FBI. He was told by the investigating agent that he was detained because he shares the same last name as someone on the FAA watch list, as well as the same year of birth [REDACTED]. He was released after the agent confirmed his identity. b6

He has encountered difficulty with flying on airlines ever since April, despite the fact that the FBI readily determined that he did not pose a security risk. Even so, he continues to be harassed by airlines and to encounter difficulties when he flies, largely, it appears, because of his ethnicity. This is unfair. Moreover, I understand from my conversations with TSA that he is but one of a number of individuals who are similarly situated.

Re: [REDACTED] b6
TSA Control No. 10094

Dear Ms. Lozito:

I have not been successful in contacting you by telephone over the past couple of weeks, which probably is almost inevitable given my understanding of the volume of phone calls you receive daily. This letter, I hope, will prove more effective.

I write to you on the advice of your colleague, Charlotte Bryan, as well as others within the Transportation Security Administration, all of whom have tried hard to help me. They have informed me that you are the person most likely to be able to help me help my client, [REDACTED] b6

b6 Succinctly, last month [REDACTED] b6 was scheduled to fly from Syracuse, New York to Washington, D.C. on business for his employer, Syracuse Research Corporation [REDACTED] b6 who has top secret clearance, was to conduct business at the Pentagon that morning.

Ironically, despite his top secret clearance, [REDACTED] b6 was detained after the employees of U.S. Airways thought that he matched a profile on the FAA's watch list. According to the FBI agent who was called in to investigate [REDACTED] b6's detention, Ms. Alvarez, [REDACTED] b6 was detained because he shares the same last name as someone on the FAA watch list, as well as the same year of birth, [REDACTED] b6. He was released shortly after the agent confirmed his identity.

Although it went unspoken, it is inescapable to me that he also was detained because he is of [redacted]. While [redacted] appreciates that these times call for an abundance of caution and safety regarding airline security, it nonetheless is frustrating to him that he can be wrongfully detained by the thinnest of criteria--particularly as he is a frequent flier. It likewise is my understanding from communicating with TSA that [redacted] situation is hardly unique.

My goal is to reach a reasonable arrangement or accommodation for [redacted] so that he will not be subjected to any frustrating and disruptive detentions in the future. I cannot imagine that if the problem he faces is as pervasive as I am led to believe that TSA has not forged a solution (or is not in the process of doing so) for those in his position. I would be pleased to discuss this matter in greater detail and answer any questions that you might have. I look forward to hearing from you.
