[Best Practice for Voting Officials] When the provision of accessibility involves an alternative format for ballot presentation, then all the other information presented to voters in the case of non-disabled English-literate voters (including instructions, warnings, messages, and ballot choices) is also presented in that alternative format.

[Best Practice for Voting Officials] When the primary means of voter identification or authentication uses biometric measures that require a voter to possess particular biological characteristics, the voting process provides a secondary means that does not depend on those characteristics.

[Best Practice for Voting Officials] Polling places are subject to the appropriate guidelines of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990 and of the Architectural Barriers Act (ABA) of 1968. This requirement does not stem from HAVA, but rather is a reminder of other legal obligations. For more details, see <http://www.access-board.gov/ada-aba.htm> and <http://www.usdoj.gov/crt/ada/votingck.htm>.

[Best Practice for Voting Officials] Appropriate procedures are needed to ensure that absentee balloting enable the voter to preserve privacy. There is no practical means to prevent a voter from revealing an absentee paper ballot to others. But the procedures should ensure that if a voter chooses to maintain privacy, it is not violated at a later stage, in particular when the ballot is received by voting officials.
