

The Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC) Launches Privacy 2010
Election Campaign

Our Candidate is Privacy and We Expect to Win in November

WHEN: Wednesday October 13, 2010; 8:30 – 10:00 AM (Continental Breakfast provided)

WHO: The Electronic Privacy Information Center

WHERE: The Mott House, 122 Maryland Avenue NE (Behind the US Supreme Court)

WHAT: EPIC Launches Privacy 2010 Election Campaign

The press and the public are invited to the official launch of the Privacy 2010 campaign for support for the values of privacy, consumer protection, and civil liberties. The Privacy 2010 campaign puts these issues at the forefront of the election agenda. We aim to raise awareness among candidates from all parties and educate voters on the important privacy, civil liberties, and consumer issues of this election cycle.

The Privacy 2010 campaign website will empower voters who care about privacy, civil liberties, and consumer protection to find out where their candidates stand on these issues. The site will provide questions for interested organizations and voters to ask candidates.

A panel of experts on privacy, civil liberties, and civil rights will introduce the campaign on Wednesday, including:

- Marc Rotenberg, EPIC
- Jeff Chester, Center for Digital Democracy
- Michelle De Mooy, Consumer Action
- Ed Mierzwinski, U.S. PIRG
- Aaron Titus, Liberty Coalition
- Nadhira Al-Khalili, Council on American-Islamic Relations (CAIR)
